KING BONK

WHITEPAPER

INTRODUCTION

Web3 adoption is slowing down. Existing users are diving knee-deep into the technology exploration and have almost no time or motivation to educate a growing population of users who demand this technology but are too scared and ignorant to come close because of the horrors diligently spread by the news.

Without breaking down the complexities of the technology and taking it to the users outside, the knowledge gap between veteran users and normies continues to widen, further decelerating the adoption of the technology.

Meme tokens have done an incredible job in closing this gap. They create an opportunity for users to experience Web3 without its complexity, just fun and building relationships. However, that's being sabotaged by the speculative interest of users in capital gains and profits. The digital culture and bond built through these simple objective tokens are being swept under the carpet. Not anymore. There's a new sheriff in town to change the game and call everyone to order - The King Bonk.

King Bonk has seized power and the title of King of all Bonk-inspired coins. He needs no permission to take over and dominate BSC and blockchains beyond to bring Bonks to their full glory. The vision is set to amuse people into web3 adoption, and the King is raising an army and forging through the noise to conquer more territories for Web3 through Memes.

Web3 will behold the effectiveness in Web3 adoption again as King Bonk opens the gates to usher in the next wave of users via entertainment, collaboration and community. A Meme is born! A King is risen!

The King Bonk is pulling digital resources and communities together to make Meme tokens what they are primarily for again. It is building an army to push Web3 adoption beyond its current shores. It's leading the charge to unite all dog coins of the people and channel the Memetic energy towards solidifying the value these community tokens provide for the infant web3 industry.

MISSION & OBJECTIVES

King Bonk is leading the charge towards bringing meme coins to the forefront of Web3 adoption again. New participants in Web3 need no complexity to fully understand and grasp the full potential of the technology propelled by the fun and collaboration provided by a vibrant community.

Hence the objectives of King Bonk are outlined as follows:

- Establish a vibrant army of King Bonkers to encourage the use of Web3 technology via the fun and incentives of the king.
- Enable an environment of creativity where King Bonkers can freely express their creativity to unlock a new level of applications of the technology.
- Spread the news of the wonders of Web3 to new audiences across all digital landscapes and terrains with backing incentives.

The king is assembling an army to bring the good tidings of blockchain technology to the people in the most innovative fun ways. King Bonk will become the top dog on BSC by doing for the people what they cannot do for themselves.
